SAGASTA'S SNEERING TALK

Says We Will Not Fight When Chances Are Even.

DARES US TO ATTACK SANTIAGO

Spanish Premier Declares the Forti-Scations and Ships There Are Stronger Than at Manile, and There Will Be No Fight Until Cervera ls Ready.

London, May 26 .- A dispatch from Madrid to the Central News says that Senor Sagasta in an interview with a Central News corespondent last evening said that as matters stood at present a naval engagement in Cuban waters was extreme improbable and in all likelihood would be indefinitely postponed.

The curent rumors of fighting were un founded, he said. Admiral Cervera's squadron was safe in the harbor of Santiago and would remain there while the into trim. This work would be carried out leisurely in pursuance of a well-de-fined plan agreed upon by the naval au-thorities. There would not be a fight at Santiago, the Premier said, unless Admiral Cevera desired it.

The Americans would find the Santiago forts and the ships in the harbor very different from those destroyed by Ad-miral Dewey's squadron at Manila, over fight when the odds appeared against them and when they faced guns of equal caliber of their own. They dare not atawaiting a naval battle before they attempt an invasion of Cuba they will need

ALLIANCE A CHIMERA.

Prof. Goldwin Smith Sees No Pros-

Prof. Geldwin Smith Sees No Prospect of a Successful Agreement.

Toronto, May 26.—Prof. Goldwin Smith, writing on the proposed Anglo-American alliance, fails to see the wisdom or practicability of it. There are sixty millioms, roughly speaking, of genuine Anglo-Saxons and about an equal number of Irish, Highland or Weish Celts, French, Germana, Seandinaviana, negroes, Jews, and other people of miscellaneous origin, with a corresponding diveraity of ideas and tendencies. He asks what would be the commercial basis between protectionist America and free-trade Britain, and concludes that without definite objects no such alliance or combination could be held together.

He sees in the American Constitution an objection to an alliance. In Greg Britain there is continuity of policy, while the Washington Government is completely changed at the end of each Prosidential term. How could the British cabinet adapt its actions to these rotations? There would be serious danger of a divergence, which would make relations worse than they were before.

British need of support in China and American need of sympathy in the war have produced an improvement of feeling. The vague talk of Amglo-American alliance will presently find its way into the same Limbo as the vague talk of imperial federation which has been general for years without leading to any practical result.

Writing on the war, Goldwin Smith predicts wickory for the United States over Spain. He says if Admiral Cervera has locked himself up in Santiago harbor it seems that he has repeated the error of his Spanish predecessor at Hawana, when that port was taken by the British. He probably feels that he has no chance in battle.

The thing which makes the issue of the war certain, besides the immense disparity in numbers and resources, is the rottenness of the Spanish service, and perhaps even more the vast superiority of Americans in mechanical skill, which is now the decisive factor in naval warare.

EMPIRE STATE SLIGHTED MUNYO

No General of the Army From New York.

GOVERNOR BLACK IS IGNORED

The President Passes by His Re-All Other States Recognised, But New York, With the Largest Quota, In Left Out in the Cold.

New York, May 26,-Much comment and no little surprise have been caused by the failure of President McKinley to select a major general or brigadier general from the State of New York. In view of the fact that the State funishes the largest number of troops, its quota being nearly one-tenth of the entire number called for, the omission of the President to recog-nize it in filling the higher military offices at his disposal could not have fall-ed to cause remark, had no application to him for appointments been made.

Application was made, however, by
Gov. Black when he sent a telegram to President McKinley announcing that New York's quota of the troops asked for in the first call was ready. The dispatch

York's quota of the troops asked for in the first call was ready. The dispatch was as follows:

"The governor of the State of New York tenders the twelve regiments called for from this State as a division of four brigades, and will be pleased to have Charles Francis Roe appointed major general, and Peter C. Doyle, Robert Shaw Olive, McCoskry Butt and George Moore Smith as brigadier generals, the positions held by them in the State service. Roe is a West Point graduate and former Army officer; Doyle is a former volunteer officer, war of rebellion, and Olive is a former Army officer. The others have seen long service in the National Guard of this State."

Major General Roe's military record offers no point of objection. He organised and built up the cavalry troops of the Guard so that in case of emergency there would be no such lack of efficient cavalry officers as there was at the outbreak of the civil war. The other officers mentioned in the governor's dispatch are acknowledged to be thoroughly competent to receive appointments.

President McKinley, instead of granting Governor Black's request, offered an appointment as major general to Grenville M. Dodge. It was refused, because General Dodge is more than seventy years old, or past the retiring age of Army officers.

This is the only recognition that New oid, or past the retiring age of Army officers.

This is the only recognition that New York has received, while nearly every other State in the Union has obtained appointments. Of the officers of the Guard Captain Putnam Bradies Strong, the son of former Mayor Strong, a personal friend of the President, has been appointed on the staff of General Merritt to go to the Philippines with his Guard rank of captain. Major Avery W. Andrews has been made chief quartermaster, with rank of lieutenant colonel. No other special recognition has been given.

While others have besieged Washington for appointments, Major General Roe and the four brigadier generals recommended by Governor Black have been busy preparing the volunteers of the Guard for service. Having accomplished their task they are left without employment by the departure of the regiments for the front. Gen. Roe left Camp Black yesterday, and Gen. Pennington, of the Regular Army, and from another State, will take his place in command. It is the opinion of those competent to judge that Gen. Roe acquitted himself well of a difficult task, and his present enforced idleness is regretted.

While the men who have served long in task, and his present enforced idleness is regretted.

While the men who have served long in the National Guard have been left high and dry, it is predicted that Col. Frederick D. Grant will receive the appointment of major general which Gov. Black asked for Gen. Roe. It is said that Col. Grant's appointment in the Guard was not popular with the officers of longer service, and that, in consequence, he had much to contend with while he, was at Camp Black. It is even said that he made application at Washington to be ordered away as soon as possible. There would certainly be criticism of his promotion. Senator Platt favors his appointment.

motion. Senator Platt favors his appointment.

It is said that the friends of Brig.
Gen. Louis Fitzgerald, retired, are urging his appointment as major general, and that he has a powerful backing in the business part of the city.

It is asserted that on the occasion of his recent visit to Washington Governor Black took occasion to urge that the commissions which he had recommended be conferred. Nothing, however, has come of this renewed request, and New York's generals are on the shelf.

Starvation in Newfoundland. Starvation in Newfoundland.

St. Johns, N. F., May 26.—Destitution is reported from Openhall, Bonavista Bay, Several men who have reached King's Cove from there say that a large number of families are actually starving, not having a morsel of bread. These men came to King's Cove determined to have bread, being no longer able to bear hearing their wives and children crying with hunger. The premier was interviewed, and he stated that the government has not been informed of the alleged starvation. There are reports that there is a shortage of provisions in several northern places owing to the ice blockade preventing nupties reaching here. The latest report is that there are bread riots at Whitbourne.

About 11 o'clock several men rode into town from Trappe district and halted in front of the jail. Every few minutes men dressed in gum trousers, tarpaulin hats and gum boots could be seen going around the courthouse in the direction of the jail. At midnight, when the electric lights were shut off, a cheer went up, and shortly afterward signals could be heard.

By this time the crowd had swelled to over 100 men, talking in whispers and awaiting their leader. At 12:30 a. m the leader arrived with a shotgun, ac-companied by three other men with the leader arrived with a shotgun, accompanied by three other men with large clubs.

At 12:35 ten men came up with a telegraph pole and the leader rapped on the door, calling to Sheriff Dashill to open. The request being refused, the telegraph pole was brought into action as a ram. The first blow was given amid cheers and curses. After ten minutes of hard work the door was battered down and the crowd mounted the steps and called for a light, Sheriff Dashill having extinguished all the lights in the jail as soon as the attack was made. A lanters was procured and search begun for the negro. The crowd was so anxious to get hold of the right man that repeated cries of "Get the right man" were heard on all sides.

Sheriff Dashill refused to give up the keys to the cell, and the leader, producing a sledge, broke the lock. While the men were breaking open the door the negro was on his knees begging for mercy.

The crowd dragged him from the cell, and some one said, "Shoot him," but the crowd downstairs, not wishing to be cheated out of their revenge, shouted, "No, bring him down."

A call was made for a rope and some delay was occasioned, but finally one was procured and placed around the prisoner's neck. He was then dragged downstairs, fighting for his life. At this time someone blew out the light. Fearing the murderer would escape one of the crowd struck him with a club.

Another light was procured, the prisoner all the while was fighting his captors and crying out for mercy. Before he could be strung up several of the
